

LEADERS OF TOMORROW WASHINGTON, DC
STUDENT-LED ENTREPRENEURSHIP & COMMUNITY SERVICE
MOCK CORPORATION

AISHA HART, PRESIDENT AND CEO

From the desk of:
Janaye Robinson
Vice President of Marketing and Communications

Contact:
Cedric Mobley, Chair
leaders@dcbmbaa.org
(202) 641-8308

LOT Book Drive Nets Over 100 Books for Underprivileged Children

Washington, DC (September 11, 2010)- Leaders of Tomorrow- Washington D.C. Chapter strives to do community service every month— lending a helping hand to those in need with a simple act of kindness. This month, we marked September 11 with community service in the form of the LOT Book Drive to benefit libraries located in low income communities in the Washington D.C. Metro Area, including libraries located in Woodbridge VA, Laurel MD, and Washington D.C. The D.C. Chapter collected books for children of all ages. To inspire future leaders of our generation, we wrote inspirational quotes in all the books we donated to impact the readers around us in a positive way.

Books not only improve kid's vocabulary, but also enhances their sense of imagination and brings them into a world outside of that we live in. The turnout for the book drive was spectacular. We donated over 1000+ books this month, most with a quote inside. All of us in The National Black MBA Association Leaders of Tomorrow youth participants know this will be a great and positive way to involve ourselves and to improve communities.

The Washington, DC Leaders of Tomorrow Program (LOT) is a mentoring outreach effort of the National Black MBA Association-Washington, DC Chapter. Mentors from the Metro DC area work with students on a consistent basis to help them the habits necessary for achievement, to set and reach goals, and understand personal and collective responsibility. LOT is an intense system of engagement and activities related to academic excellence, college preparation, professional development, community service, life lessons, finance, SAT/ACT preparation, history and current events, networking, public speaking, analytical development, and leadership.

